“Sean Soderberg - American Legion Officer of the Year”

Sean Soderberg was recently selected American Legion Post 16 Law Enforcement Officer of the Year.

Soderberg is a native of Fremont, Nebraska and obtained his criminal justice degree from Wayne State College becoming a patrol officer for the Norfolk Police Division in 2010.

Police Chief Bill Mizner recommended Soderberg for the award stating in his letter of support that Soderberg “doesn’t wait for someone to tell him what to do. He goes out and gets after it on a daily basis.”

Chief Mizner said Soderberg is above both the police shift and division averages in every statistical category including traffic enforcement, criminal arrests and calls for service that the Police Division tracks. He is also one of the top three officers for Drinking Under the Influence enforcement in the past year.

Soderberg serves as a Field Training Officer, an additional duty that requires time training new patrol officers. He also serves as a Defensive Tactics Instructor and is the co-coordinator of the Police Division’s Alcohol Compliance Program.
